

Press release
Paris, 11 March 2008

France: Orange has launched a new all-in-one broadband Internet offer for its fixed-line customers, the "optimale découverte internet" (optimal internet discovery).

This new offer provides customers the chance to discover the Internet with ease while still benefiting from the advantages of their fixed line.

A no-commitment plan with Internet + TV, calls and telephone subscription included

By choosing the Internet discovery plan for only €39.90 a month (incl. VAT), customers get:

- The "1 MegaMax" broadband internet access for unlimited Internet browsing, to view bank account details, keep up with the latest news, plan holidays, send and receive emails and photos with friends and family, and much more

- Digital TV with more than 60 channels, including the major French channels, free DTT channels, thematic channels and VoD service access with more than 3,000 programmes on offer. Digital TV access works via the livebox (€3 a month), on the condition of eligibility and payment of a €49 deposit for the set top box.

- 2 hours of calls to fixed lines a month in mainland France, with beneficial per-minute rates available 24-7 for over 2 hours of calls and for other call destinations and types, especially mobiles.

- Practical services included, like caller identification, call waiting, call forwarding and enhanced voice message service.

- Telephone subscription included

The optimale découverte internet plan has a single monthly bill. The offer makes life easier, more comfortable, free and secure, all without a minimum subscription period.

The customer's telephone installation remains unchanged, but they can now call and be called while browsing the Internet. They also benefit from 24-7 technical support.

To find out more, customers can call 1014 (a free number from fixed France Telecom lines) or go to francetelecom.fr under the section, "fixe" (fixed lines).

About Orange

Orange is the key brand of France Telecom, one of the world's leading telecommunications operators. France Telecom serves more than 170 million customers in five continents as of December 31, 2007, of which two thirds are Orange customers. The Group had consolidated sales of 52.9 billion euros in 2007. As of December 31, 2007, the Group had 109.6 million mobile customers and 11.6 million broadband internet (ADSL) customers.

Launched in June 2005, the NExT program (New Experience in Telecommunications) will enable the Group to pursue its transformation as an integrated operator and make France Telecom the benchmark for new telecommunications services in Europe. In 2006, Orange became the Group's single brand for Internet, television and mobile services in the majority of countries where the company operates, and Orange Business Services the banner for services offered to businesses worldwide. France Telecom is the number three mobile operator and the number one provider of broadband internet services in Europe and one of the world leaders in providing telecommunication services to multinational companies.

France Telecom (NYSE:FTE) is listed on Euronext Paris and on the New York Stock Exchange.
